

Computers Without an Application

Last Modified on 11.17.22

The Computers Without an Application report lists computers missing specific software applications and/or software application versions. The report can help to quickly figure out which computers need a software upgrade or are missing an application altogether.

To run the report, specify the application name, the software version, and the Configuration Manager collection.

Listed in the report:

- Computer: All computers in the specified Configuration Manager collection without the specified version of the application
- User: User who last logged on to the computer
- Application Name: Title of the software application
- Version: Alternate application versions, where available
